

Why online advertising is good for business

More people online

The total online audience is continuing to grow. An estimated 21.7 million homes in the UK had a broadband connection by 2012¹.

You use the internet every day to find answers quickly and easily — so do your potential customers. A quarter (25%) of visitors to our websites check the news before they check their emails, and 15% of them use the internet for shopping.²

If you want to effectively promote your business, you need to include online in your marketing mix.

Drive traffic to your site

Advertisers in the UK spent £5.416 billion online during 2012 and 24% of that total went on display advertising.³

What draws so many people to our sites?

24-hour News

Stories are uploaded to our websites all day, every day. Community news, regional and national news, and sports news all generate huge traffic. But the sites offer a wealth of other content including local weather, traffic bulletins, health and schools information, jobs, homes and cars, and video reports.

Trusted brands

Associate your product or service with the most trusted brand in the area. The Bucks Free Press is at the heart of its community and commands huge respect and affection.

Our audience = your potential customers

Growing audiences

The Bucks Free Press has a growing audience both in terms of Page Impressions and Unique Users. This site generates more than one million page impressions every month.⁴

Targeting and timing

No print deadlines means you can advertise when it suits you — weekends, when you have a sale, evenings only etc. Let your schedule fit your business needs.

Choose which section of the website will generate the best response for your business — sport, cars, jobs, education etc.

Contextual Advertising

What is it?

Contextual advertising is “the placement of advertising next to related content” according to the Internet Advertising Bureau. It is a system employed to identify keywords, phrases and topics in an article and display relevant advertising next to it.

How does it work?

When booking an advert with bucksfreepress.co.uk, an advertiser would choose a target group for their product from a set list of categories. Each category has its own dictionary of at least 50 keywords, that are picked up by the contextual advertising system as it scans an article, and a relevant advert is displayed alongside. The system is also configured to avoid controversy and error by avoiding pro nouns, duplication and utilising an “unsuitable” category to filter out the more shocking news stories.

Why use contextual advertising?

Simply, contextual advertising is more effective because it is more specific. By targeting the advert at the audience most likely to respond to it, there is less waste.

So for example

In an article placed under the contextual group of “family”, the keyword “walk” has been detected and an advert for the National Trust is displayed. There is also the option of creating bespoke categorisation on a per advertiser basis.

The screenshot shows the Bucks Free Press website interface. At the top, there are navigation links for 'Mobile site', 'News feed', 'E-Newsletters', and the date 'Wednesday, 25 May 2011'. The main header features the 'Bucks Free Press' logo and a search bar. Below the header is a navigation menu with categories like 'News', 'Sport', 'Freetime', 'Local info', 'Your Say', 'Your Bucks', 'Family', 'Video', 'Jobs', 'Homes', 'Cars', 'Dating', 'Directory', 'Buy & Sell', and 'Advertise'. The main content area is titled 'FREETIME' and features an article 'Plumpton Circular' by Ben Perkins. The article text includes: 'Linking Plumpton Green and South Chailey, both with conveniently placed pubs, this walk by Ben Perkins follows well-signed field paths across a generally level Low Wealden landscape, notable for its rich and varied tree-lined hedgerows and distant downland views.' A red circle highlights the word 'walk' in the text. To the right of the article is a weather forecast for High Wycombe showing '17.6°C' and '0% chance of rain'. Below the weather is a 'WHAT'S ON' section with 'LIVE TRAVEL' and 'FIND A TRADE' buttons. A 'Heathrow Airport' alert is also visible. At the bottom right, there is a National Trust advertisement for 'Family time' with a red circle around the image. The advertisement text says: 'Family time. We're closer than you think. So come along for a walk.' The National Trust logo and 'the well spent' tagline are also present.
